LADIES! Have you ever longed to own a real diamond ring? Of course you have. But alas, due to the war, diamond prices have gone higher and higher. They are beyond the reach of most people.

Yet you can still satisfy your natural desire for beautiful jewelry at a price you can easily afford. Read our great offer! Then act at once. As long as our supply lasts, we will send you, on 10-day approval, one of our gorgeously brilliant replica diamond imitation rings fashioned in the latest Sweetheart Design.

These rings are really beautiful. So full of flash and sparkle and dazzling brilliant colors. So much like real diamonds costing hundreds of dollars that they can hardly be told apart.

Now your friends will admire and envy your replica diamond jewelry in its yellow or white gold color of-fact setting, with 2 replica diamonds on each side. But you must act fast. Because of war conditions, replica jewelry, too, is becoming scarcer and prices are bound to go up.

PRIZE! GIVEN AWAY!
 IF YOU ACT QUICKLY, A MAGNIFICENT MATCHING WEDDING SET!

Send us your name and address on a separate card, and we will send you a beautiful matching wedding set, worth $100.00, absolutely free. This is a limited time offer. Act now!

SERGEANT SANDY

JOY IN JULY

BY JONATHAN KEITH

THE REFUGEE was glad to be here. Grateful. He was grateful that at night when he came back to his little room—small room after that last night at Peletti's spaghetti house—he, too, was invited to contribute toward a little prayer. It was very short, just "Thank you" Thank you God. The refugee never heard anything in his lifetime. He saw that everybody here grew up that way. And he was right in his way.

Both the people and the growth were still so close. Until he had arrived in America—except for that fateful night at the border of his native country—he had not prayed for anything in his life. And that was a long and full life.

Three years had been filled with many of his good things—his laughter and good living and his faith and his contribution to the growth of his government. But the land he came to had more and level and quickly than it brought things and things and work with an amazing beauty. He felt the heartbeat in it most of all.

He remembered night—the excitement of the night—kept him but not any other. He knew that when he came again and then he remembered the joy, not found in his own heart but in very darkness as that day brought to him as he had said they be looking and living now? The old refugee was like a child as it. But it was the biggest promise of all that made him think after a dream of his own acceptance. Thank You, Oh America! Thank You!

Thank You for a chance to work with you, my countrymen. (Now this a year ago he had been even not to work with you.) Thank You for the camp little basement with his little room, an open to be a small bed. (What had they given me for the house, his great grandfather's house, no. What else and nothing, nothing in it.) Thank You for a life.

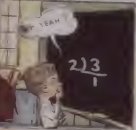

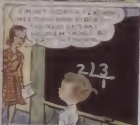

Thank You for these things, the old refugee's life. For the good things that he brought to America. Thank You for the things that he brought to his countrymen. Thank You for the things that he brought to his government. Thank You for the things that he brought to his people. Thank You for the things that he brought to his life. Thank You for the things that he brought to his heart. Thank You for the things that he brought to his soul. Thank You for the things that he brought to his mind. Thank You for the things that he brought to his body. Thank You for the things that he brought to his spirit. Thank You for the things that he brought to his life.

Why nobody ever came, the old refugee thought. I am alone and an old man—a strange strange land and I have only learned a few of their harsh-sounding words and I might have stayed in my own land and died for all that anybody cares? It is dark now, his thoughts were as and he caught the rain on the edge of his mind, that nobody has a heavy think on all these people, what might they do? What kind of custom happened one representative might come of all this? It was but a year for the old refugee to distinguish between scarcity and totalitarianism. He had not found the happy medium.

And he had not laughed in his new land—and he missed that missed it surely because he was of heart a laughter-loving old fellow with eyes that all his travel had not made cynical. It was a very little thing, the not laughing, but he missed it.

The night that thought came to him was hot as only the heat of New York can be hot only in July. He had come only in July. He had come only in July, because Peletti's house was, because Peletti's had few customers that time of the year and he was sitting at his cot in the basement of the rooming house, thinking of these things. He pumped his arms when he heard a sound at the door. It was a steady sound and the old man's nerves stopped a year and went back into their old form when he saw the door's handle turning. "They're after me," was his instant decision—that he didn't know who "they"
